

CLASSICS

Immerse yourself in the past and explore the civilizations that helped shape our world today with the Bachelor of Arts in Classics at Temple University.

This undergraduate degree program emphasizes the study of the cultures and languages of two major civilizations of the ancient Mediterranean world.

As a student in the Classics Major, you'll delve into the spoken and written word of ancient civilizations with the Classical Languages and Literature concentration, or broaden your understanding of the cultural, political and social conditions of Ancient Greek and Roman society with the Classical Civilizations concentration. Familiarize yourself with the ways in which people communicated and conducted themselves, their businesses, and their faith and family life. You'll learn about the pioneers of human discovery who answered some of the biggest questions of their time and developed groundbreaking innovations, and whose stories still resonate today.

ACADEMIC OFFERINGS

- BA in Classics with a Concentration in Classical Civilizations
- BA in Classics with a Concentration in Classical Languages and Literature
- Minor in Classics
- Minor in Ancient Mediterranean Studies
- Accelerated +1: BA in Classical Languages and Literature: Latin /MA in Secondary Education

CLASSICS GOES BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Our students go abroad to both Greece and Rome, studying in the places that gave birth to some of the world's greatest scientists, thinkers and artists. They can also spend a summer on an archaeological dig in the Mediterranean.

The location and course offerings in Rome make it extremely attractive to anyone interested in the ancient world. Students are encouraged to conduct research alongside faculty who are at the forefront of their fields and study away in the very places on which coursework subjects are focused.

CLASSICS IS A COMMUNITY

Our Classics Club—open to all majors and minors—and our chapter of the national honor society for classics. The Eta Sigma Phi, actively meet and hold events like lectures, movie nights and other social activities. Eta Sigma Phi members also attend a spring convention and have the opportunity to win scholarships to study in the Mediterranean.

CAREER POSSIBILITIES

The strong liberal arts foundation students build in this degree program is invaluable for future careers in many organizations and industries, including academics, cultural institutions, government agencies or the social sciences.

Students are trained to communicate effectively, understand human relationships, compare cultures, read original and difficult texts and think critically. These skills are highly important, particularly in employers' increasingly digital landscape.

Examples of the types of careers available to Classics graduates include archivist, classicist, college professor, librarian, museum curator, primary and secondary school teacher and translator.

At the College of Liberal Arts(CLA), students have access to more than just great classes. Our urban setting provides COUNTLESS EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES outside the classroom like internships, research endeavors with faculty and community engagement. These experiences EMPOWER OUR STUDENTS to continue developing their skill sets, pursuing their interests and growing into tomorrow's leaders in challenging and rewarding career paths.

INTERSHIPS

Internships impart valuable skills that are extensions of those taught in the classroom. CLA is committed to enhancing students' professionalism and assisting them in obtaining internships. Visit the Joyce K. Salzberg Center for Professional Development for internship resources dedicated solely to liberal arts students.

COMMUNITY-ENGAGED LEARNING

Community-engaged Learning (CEL) is a collaboration between students, faculty and community stakeholders to address a community-identified need.

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

Undergraduate research opportunities at CLA range from developing an independent project to partnering with a faculty member or working with a university lab or group.

STUDY ABROAD

Studying abroad can be one of the most transformative experiences you'll have as a college student. Temple University students have many opportunities to study abroad through our international campuses in Rome and Japan, foreign exchange programs and external partnerships.

DEADLINES

NOVEMBER 1:

- Application Deadline for Spring
- Early Action First-year Application Deadline for Fall

FEBRUARY 1:

- First-year Application Deadline for Fall
- FAFSA Financial Aid Priority Filing Deadline

MAY 1:

- First-year Housing Deposit Deadline
- First-year Tuition Deposit Deadline

JUNE 1:

- Transfer Application Deadline for Fall

WHAT YOU SEE ISN'T ALWAYS WHAT YOU PAY

That's why the College of Liberal Arts is committed to keeping tuition low—in fact, we are one of the few colleges within Temple University that does not charge a tuition differential. Our priority is to help you graduate with less student debt.

For more information on Temple University tuition and financial aid, visit Student Financial Services at sfs.temple.edu

CONNECT WITH US

Have more questions about the College of Liberal Arts? We have both virtual and on-campus opportunities for you to connect with CLA enrollment staff, faculty and current students.

College of Liberal Arts Visit Center
Gladfelter Hall, Ground floor
(215) 204-6337
visitcla@temple.edu

APPLY NOW

Visit admissions.temple.edu to get started.

TRANSFERRING?

Whether transferring has always been a part of your plan or you suddenly find yourself ready to make a change, the College of Liberal Arts offers flexibility to help you accomplish your goals as efficiently as possible.

To learn more about transferring to Temple, please visit liberalarts.temple.edu/transfer or email us at clatransfer@temple.edu.

liberalarts.temple.edu

@TULiberalArts